WHY BOISE

HOW WE WORK

An Economy on the Rise

There's no doubt about it: Boise is looking more desirable every day, enticing people from all over the world with its breathtaking natural surroundings, business opportunities and unparalleled quality of life. Over the past couple of decades, many have likened the area to Denver, citing high growth rates and an impressive 2020 population of more than 770,000 residents. These trends aren't unique to Boise, either; Idaho as a whole has capitalized on large amounts of net migration in the last several years. From 2010 to 2020, it was the second fastest growing state in the nation, reporting a 17.3% change in resident population.
