Positioned at the highly visible intersection of 7th Avenue and Denny Way, Sloane is a 45-story residential tower (retail delivery Q1 2027) anchoring the north edge of downtown Seattle. The project provides two distinct retail spaces available for lease in a densifying, high-income urban neighborhood.

With prominent frontage along Denny Way—one of Seattle’s most heavily trafficked east-west corridors—the spaces benefit from exceptional visibility and connectivity between South Lake Union, Belltown, and the downtown core.

DEMOGRAPHICS

Downtown Seattle continues to see strong residential growth, with tens of thousands of apartment units delivered over the past decade and a growing full-time population that supports a vibrant, walkable retail environment. The surrounding neighborhood is characterized by a highly educated, affluent renter base, with strong demand for boutique fitness, wellness, food & beverage, and service-oriented retail. Immediate proximity to major employment hubs in South Lake Union and the Denny Triangle further drives consistent daytime population and foot traffic.

This is a rare opportunity to establish a presence in a high-density, supply-constrained corridor with built-in visibility, a strong residential customer base, and seamless access to some of Seattle’s most dynamic neighborhoods.
