COST SAVINGS

Washington State Tax incentives

There are many state incentives you can take advantage of—some have an average savings of $100,000, while others offer thousands of dollars in tax credits for new hires. Here are a few:

- B&O tax credit for new hires: up to $4,000 credit for each new position
- Job skills program—competitive grant: average savings of $100,000
- Manufacturers of biodiesel fuel, biodiesel alcohol fuel, and feedstock and wood biomass fuel get a B&O tax reduction of 0.138% (instead of 0.484%)

For a full list of incentives organized by industry, check out Washington State Tax Incentives.

City of Blaine

The B&O tax is 0.2% (two tenths of one percent) on businesses with annual gross receipts of more than $250,000. Businesses providing accommodations, medical or food services are exempt. New businesses or startups that bring 25 or more full-time jobs into the city would qualify for a tax credit over three consecutive years. (City of Blaine Economic Development, Alex Wenger (360) 543-9979)

Whatcom County

- No corporate or personal income tax: regardless of your company's size or profitability, you'll only be taxed on your gross receipts
- Washington is one of seven states that doesn't levy a Personal Income Tax
- No tax on intangible assets, like bank accounts, stocks, or bonds
- Business and Occupation Tax: this flat rate tax system allows a manufacturer to retain more earnings as profitability grows.
