SEATAC & DEMOGRAPHICS

SeaTac, the gateway to the Pacific Northwest, is a vibrant and economically robust community of 32,000 residents. This environmentally sensitive and people-oriented city hosts a diverse array of businesses catering to both locals and the steady influx of visitors. With major ports, over 6,000 hotel rooms, and Seattle-Tacoma International Airport, which served 51.8 million passengers in 2019, SeaTac sees a daily population exceeding 150,000. Boasting transit-oriented development opportunities, three light rail stations, and convenient highway access, SeaTac provides an ideal location for businesses relying on a robust transportation system. The city has experienced a remarkable 35% increase in annual development permit applications in the last 12 months compared to 2012, highlighting its dynamic growth and investment potential. Its dynamic economic landscape, diverse demographics, and skilled labor force make SeaTac a central hub for business logistics and a catalyst for regional economic development.
